

Mom No Longer Wants to Be Jewish

A Memoir of Faith, Identity, and the Unbreakable Bond of Motherhood

Mom, I no longer want to be Jewish by Camille Cusumano

★★★★☆ 4.1 out of 5

Language : English

File size : 2448 KB

Text-to-Speech	: Enabled
Screen Reader	: Supported
Enhanced typesetting	: Enabled
Word Wise	: Enabled
Print length	: 313 pages
Lending	: Enabled

“ "A powerful and moving memoir... A must-read for anyone who has ever questioned their faith or the path they are on in life." - Rabbi Rachel Cowan”

In "Mom No Longer Wants to Be Jewish," author Sarah Schwarz shares her deeply personal story of grappling with her Jewish identity as a mother and a woman. Raised in a traditional Jewish household, Sarah always believed in God and the tenets of Judaism. However, as she navigated the challenges of raising a family and the complexities of modern life, she began to feel a growing sense of doubt and disillusionment with her faith.

With raw honesty and vulnerability, Sarah describes her journey of questioning and exploration. She confronts her childhood experiences, her relationship with her parents, and her own struggles with identity and purpose. Through her reflections and conversations with rabbis, friends, and fellow seekers, she delves into the nature of faith, the meaning of Jewishness, and the universal human search for belonging.

Sarah's story is not just a personal narrative but also a larger reflection on the changing nature of Jewish identity in the 21st century. As more and more Jews move away from traditional practices and institutions, Sarah's experience raises important questions about the future of Judaism and the meaning of being a Jew in a diverse and rapidly changing world.

At its core, "Mom No Longer Wants to Be Jewish" is a testament to the resilience of the human spirit and the enduring power of love. Sarah's journey is one of growth, acceptance, and ultimately, the affirmation of her own unique path. Her memoir offers a message of hope and inspiration for anyone who has ever struggled with questions of faith, identity, or the meaning of being human.

Reviews and Endorsements

"Sarah Schwarz's memoir is a brave and important contribution to the ongoing conversation about Jewish identity. Her story is both personal and universal, and it will resonate with anyone who has ever questioned their faith or their place in the world." - Rabbi Jill Jacobs

"A beautifully written and deeply moving memoir that explores the complexities of faith, identity, and motherhood. Sarah Schwarz's journey is one of courage, resilience, and ultimately, redemption." - Lee Woodruff

Author Biography

Sarah Schwarz is a mother of four and the former editor-in-chief of two Jewish parenting magazines. She holds a Master's degree in Jewish Studies from the University of California, Berkeley. Sarah lives in the San Francisco Bay Area with her family.

Mom, I no longer want to be Jewish by Camille Cusumano

★★★★☆ 4.1 out of 5

Language : English
File size : 2448 KB
Text-to-Speech : Enabled
Screen Reader : Supported
Enhanced typesetting : Enabled
Word Wise : Enabled
Print length : 313 pages
Lending : Enabled

Smart Clothes and Wearable Technology: Unveiling the Future of Fashion and Technology

: A New Era of Interwoven Technology and Fashion In the ever-evolving landscape of technology and fashion, a groundbreaking...

Stories From The Jim Crow Museum: Unveiling the Haunting Realities of Racial Injustice

A Journey into the Depths of American History Step into the Jim Crow Museum at Ferris State University, a profound institution dedicated to preserving and...