The accused killers were two wealthy college students from the University of Chicago, Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold. They were both brilliant young men with promising futures. But they were also bored and thrill-seeking. They decided to commit the perfect crime, a murder that would be so carefully planned and executed that they would never be caught.

The trial of Leopold and Loeb was a media circus. The courtroom was packed with spectators and reporters. The jury was composed of 12 men who were hand-picked by the defense attorneys. The trial lasted for months and the evidence against Leopold and Loeb was overwhelming. They were both found guilty of murder and sentenced to death.

The case of Leopold and Loeb has been the subject of numerous books, articles, and movies. It is a fascinating story of crime, punishment, and the nature of evil. No Hanging Please Shoot Us is the definitive account of this notorious case. The book is a gripping read that will stay with you long after you finish it.
